Foreign Students Enroll

Two new students who have completed their high school studies once have returned to classes in Torrance. The youths, Carlos Falcone of Uruguay and Consuelo Adams of Chile, are enrolled at Bishop Montgomery High School. They are studying in the United States on scholarships awarded by the "Youth for Understanding" program. Carlos, 16, is attending Montgomery as a junior and is enrolled in English, chemistry, mathematics, and history classes. In Uruguay, he attended class six days each week from 8 a.m. until noon. After he completes the spring semester at Montgomery, Falcone will return to Uruguay. He plans to come back to the United States to study agronomy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

School Group to Hear Admiral on 'Viet Nam'

Rear Admiral William C. Chambliss, USN (Ret.), will be guest speaker at the annual luncheon meeting of the Southern California School Food Service Association Friday, Jan. 27, according to program chairman John F. Blundy, food services director for the Torrance Unified School District. The noon meeting will be held at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles. Chambliss, who will discuss the "Viet Nam Mess," worked his way through Columbia University, including Law School, as a newspaperman. While in school he took two years leave to undergo Navy flight training and serve as an aviator in the Atlantic Fleet. In 1940, he returned to active duty in the Navy on the staff of Admiral Halsey. As navigator of Task Force 18 for the invasion of Guadalcanal, he was aboard the carrier flagship USS WASP when it was sunk by enemy action off the island. In 1954, he served as one of Counsel to Admiral H. E. Kimmell at the Naval Court of Inquiry into the attack on Pearl Harbor. Chambliss transferred to the regular Navy and saw service in Europe, North Africa, the Middle East, the Far East, and Washington. He retired voluntarily with the rank of rear admiral and reentered business as a corporate commission executive. A resident of Hollywood, he is the author of several books and numerous short stories. He is a member of the New York Bar.

... Dump Site Volunteers Study Budget

(Continued from Page 1) surface street. Air rights for an elevated street would be given to the city, one city official said, and no land would have to be purchased. On the other hand, he warned, construction costs of an elevated street would be considerably more than for a surface street.

Councilmen agreed to reconsider the appraisal matter on a 5-2 vote with Mayor Albert Isen and David K. Lyman dissenting.

KEN MILLER, who pressed for the appraisal last week, said it was not his "intention to make a final decision without the Chamber of Commerce report."

The feasibility of the city dump, Miller said, "is based on the purchase price of the land."

Isen said the cost of an appraisal is not justified at this time should the city later abandon the entire project. It was Isen's suggestion to file the condemnation action to freeze the land value, but to forget about the appraisal for the present.

ACCORDING to City At

Local volunteers are currently studying the budgets of 244 United Way agencies benefiting from the county-wide annual United Crusade.

Louis B. Lundborg, president of United Way, said that more than 400 volunteers have been working on budget committee conferences since October. They will complete reviews of health, welfare and youth agencies by Jan. 30. Then attorney Stanley Remelmeier, filing a condemnation action and issuing a summons will freeze the land value. But, he warned, the case must come to trial within one year.

Councilmen then voted to file the condemnation action, but told Remelmeier not to serve the summons on Mobil until ordered to do so by the council.

Then the council "informally instructed" Ferraro to approach several qualified appraisers to determine the cost of an appraisal of the proposed street right of way and dump site.

Locations will be studied and completed in March.

AGENCIES which serve more than one area, such as Childrens Hospital, Orthopaedic Hospital, McKinley Home for Boys, Catholic Welfare, Salvation Army, Jewish Big Brothers, are reviewed and budgeted by the county-wide general budget committees.

United Way divides the county into 14 administrative areas.

Agencies which are located in and serve a single United Way area are reviewed and budgeted by a local area budget committee.

VOLUNTEERS usually have a strong background of local service before appointment to the general budget committee.

Charles F. Edwards, a longtime volunteer, and regional vice president of the New York Life Insurance Co., is chairman of the general budget committee.
